NEW KIND OF TREES ORDERED

Belle Vernon Civic League Secures Norway Pines

LOCAL CITIZENS ANXIOUS

A number of Belle Vernon people have received through the Belle Vernon Civic League a consignment of trees to be planted in various streets of the town. The trees were ordered recently, and are of the rapid growing Norway Maple kind. Belle Vernon has been experiencing much the same trouble that Charleroi is now having with the Carolina poplars. These poplars worked havoc with sewers in various parts of that town, until it was necessary to have them cut down, and something else substituted. Norway Maple was said to be the best for shade and they were ordered.

At the last meeting of the Charleroi council, Frank Bly, of a citizens committee, presented a request that the borough cut down Carolina poplars free of charge where request was made, and council granted the request and instructed the street commissioner to do the work. Several property owners are anxious to have their trees removed, it is said, so others can be substituted as soon as possible. All that is necessary now to have the work done is to notify the proper borough authorities.

Reports were heard from the devotional membership and social committees. They are ust getting their work started for the year.

An effort will be made to finish up the religious census which was started last year.

WILL HOLD INSTITUTE

Country Life in All It's Phases to be Discussed

AN ECONOMIC CONDITION

A Country Life Institute will be held at West Alexander, April 18th and 19th.. The opening session will be at 7:30 on Tuesday evening and Rev. Warren H. Wilson, Ph. D. of New York, superintendent of the Deparment of Church and Country Life of the Presbyterian Board of Home Missions, under whose direction this meeting is to be held, will deliver an address on "The Church in the Country Community."

Each address will be followed by a discussion over which Dr. Warren H. Wilson will preside. This is one of the most important features of the Institute, because of the value of such contributions from the floor.

The purpose of this Institute is a discussion of country life in its threefold aspects; first, in its economic bearings, for that is always first with people who live in the country; then, in its social and educational aspects, and lastly in its religious form, because the church is the crown and summit of the people's vital experience. All attending are urged to heartily co-operate and give out of their own experience that which is vital for the betterment of country conditions.

The meeting will be held in the Presbyterian Church of West Alexander. Rev. Howell M. Evans is the pastor and it will be in connection with the Spring Meeting of the Washington Presbytery. Rev. C. L. McKee of Washington, Pennsylvania, is locally in charge.

DONORA CLUB GOES TO MONONGAHELA

Will Hold Banquet at Out of Town Hotel--Some Talk Caused

Quite a stir was caused in Donora circles last week when it became generally known that the Donora Women's club had completed arrangements for a banquet at the Commercial hotel in Monongahela. It is stated that the members of the club are indignant at the refusal of several Donora hotel proprietors to entertain them, and are going to have a royal spread regardless of cost. The date is set for Thursday, April 13, and covers will be laid for fifty.

PALM SUNDAY IS OBSERVED

Palms Distributed Among Worshipers at Solemn Services

MUSIC SPECIAL FEATURE

The anniversary of Christ's entry into Jerusalem or "Palm Sunday," as it is more commonly known, was appropriately observed with solemn service and special music in Catholic and Protestant churches throughout the town yesterday.

At St. Jeromes' Catholic church were the Palm Sunday services most elaborate. The passion was read and palm branches distributed among members of the congregation at the 10:30 mass. At other churches there were commemorative services. Music was a feature.

SPECIAL DAY FOR VISITING

Parents and Patrons Invited to Inspect Work

EXERCISES BY PUPILS

In readiness for the special Parents' visiting day displays of work have been arranged in the different rooms of the four buildings. The special visiting day will be observed by the Fifth and Crest avenue building on Tuesday and by the Ninth street and the Second street building on Wednesday. Hours will be from 1:30 to 4 o'clock.

The custom is one established by Supt. J. G. Pentz last year, in an effort to get the patrons to see what was being done in the schools. Exercises will be gone through, and there will be the anuual teaching. One of the main features will be the display of work done by the pupils of the various rooms during the entire year thus far. This has been tastefully arranged on exhibition by the teachers, and consists of drawing writing, and written-work done in the different branches.

BODY OF WOMAN WHO LOST HER LIFE IN LAUGHLIN ACCIDENT RECOVERED

Remains of Mrs. Mary Lawrence Sent to Her Late Home in Hazelwood

BOAT WILL BE RAISED

Work to be Started Today on Removing Ill-Fated Towboat From River--Not to be Put in Use

The body of Mrs. Mary Lawrence of the ill fated steamer Henry A. Laughlin, which turned turtle during a wind storm last Thursday night near Allenport was found yesterday floating in the river at Monessen, six miles below where the accident occured.

A crew on the Pittsburg and Lake Erie railroad saw the body floating in the river and put out with a skiff and towed the body ashore. They notified Constable Watts of Monessen, who in turn notified Deputy Coroner Day and the body was taken to Wright's undertaking rooms.

Capt. Cocain of the steamer was notified and arrangements were made to send the body to Hazelwood, the home of the woman. She was a widow and is survived by two sons and five daughters.

The wreck of the Laughlin has shifted its position and will probably be raised today. It is not likely it will ever be used again. She had long been regarded as top heavy.

Town Planning

One of the features in civic work that is becoming prominent is what is known as "town planning." This is a movement to make social centers in cities and towns, and to pay attention and promote attractiveness and beauty in the public as well as private places. The social centre feature is places for recreative purposes, such as parks and public squares, as well as buildings where the people can gather the same as at private clubs for amusement and social intercourse.

Very gradually but most effectually is the thought gaining ground that money making is not all that constitutes life, and that some attention should be paid to the every day environments of the plain people. If the business affairs of the cities were conducted along business lines, all these things could be attained with a minimum of taxation. Charleroi, for example, ought to secure the baseball ground in addition to enough ground for a public park and playground, as well as a public clubhouse where the citizenship could meet in social intercourse and have dancing, and other recreative amusements. While there is no likelihood of Charleroi attaining all these in the near future, it is no Utopian or Socialistic dream. Other cities and towns are getting them, while in a many European cities these features and more too, have long been in existence.

This, in brief, is what constitutes town planning. The movement is just beginning in this country, and the agitatiton for the "Pittsburg Plan" for a city charter is a start in the direction of town planning. The movement is destined to play a prominent part in municipal civics in the future.

A Civic Need

One of the civic needs of Charleroi has been supplied by the placing of park benches on the grass plot along McKean avenue, near the corner of Fifth street. This act is through the bounty of a private citizen, but its effect will be so far reaching that it is to be hoped it will furnish inspiration for more work of the sort along the same line. As an aid to the trading facilities of Charleroi the benefit of a resting place for out of town women shoppers with parcels will be inestimable, and the wonder is that none of those directly interested were thoughtful enough to provide this convenience years ago.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

"I think I have the banner chicken story of the season," said Dr. J. K. Smith, who is also a succesful chicken farmer "During the cold period of March I ordered 50 eggs for hatching from a distant point. The shipment was three days en route, and when I received the temperature was ranging from 20 to 25 degrees above zero. I kept the eggs 24 hours in the house, and then drove out to my Maple Creek farm with them, the temperature still as cold as when the eggs were received. I placed them under hens, and in exactly, fifteen and a half days one of the eggs hatched a lively chick. That was Saturday, and the rest are not due until the latter part of this week. I presume the egg that hatched must have been set upon, but the length of time it was en route makes the achievement all the more wonderful."

A WOMAN'S INFLUENCE.

Effect it Produced on Her Husband's Business Affairs.

A delegation of young men lately waited on their employer's wife with the oddest request on record. "You see, madam," said the spokesman, "we want to have a half holiday every Saturday. Now, if you will be particularly nice to Mr. Page for a few days we'll go to him and ask"—

"Gentlemen," the lady haughtily interrupted, "do you imply that I do not understand what is due to my husband?"

"Oh, I know all about it, madam," the spokesman went on. "I'm married myself. Things go wrong in the house, and you're tired and cross at breakfast. Then we suffer at the office. You stay up late to chaperon your daughter at a ball, and we have more trouble at the office. You're a bit cross three mornings in succession for one reason or another, and we have a—a—terrible time at the office.

"You see how the matter stands and how greatly you will oblige us by being more than usually agreeable to Mr. Page for three or four days. The fourth day give him the best breakfast you can—everything that he likes best—and we'll get what we want in three minutes.

"Talk about a woman having no influence in the business! Why, the humor she's in has more effect than a bank failure or a boom in trade."

She thought she ought to be angry, but instead she laughed and agreed to the proposition, and four days later when they waited on the head of the firm he made the closing hour 12 o'clock and said never in the history of the firm had things run as satisfactorily as they had during the last four days.—London Tit-Bits.

A Wetter if Not a Better Man.

A little man in the west of England rushed to the river last summer, swearing loudly that he would drown himself. When he had waded in to the depth of his waist his wife, who had followed him, seized him by the hair, and then, as a local editor described it, she led him back till he reached a place where the water was about two feet deep, where she pulled him over backward and soused him under and pulled his head up again. "Drown yourself (down he went), leaving me to father the brats! (Another plunge.) Get drunk (another souse) and start for the river! (Another dip.) Better use the water instead of rum! (Another dip and shake of the head.) I'll l'arn ye to leave me a widow!" After sozzling him to her heart's content she led him out a wetter if not a better man and escorted him into the house and closed the door.

The Gordian Knot.

The famous Gordian knot was made of leather taken from some part of the harness belonging to the chariot of Gordius, king of Phrygia. It seems that this knot was so tied that the ends of the leather thong were not visible, hence the difficulty in loosening it. Many must have tried to untie it, for its fame as a "sticker" at last reached the great oracle, which declared that the lucky experimenter should be rewarded by the kingship of Persia. Alexander, trying his hand and meeting with no better success than the others, drew his sword and cut into the knot until he found the ends of it.

Distilled Gold.

The investigations of a French chemist show that gold in the electric furnace boils freely at a temperature of 2,400 degrees C. In two or three minutes, it is said, from 100 to 150 grams of gold pass into the state of vapor. In condensing upon a cold body this golden vapor forms filiform masses and cubic crystals. At its temperature of ebullition gold dissolves a little carbon, which at the time of resolidification is deposited in the form of graphite. In an alloy of gold and copper, copper distills first. In an alloy of gold and tin, the tin distills more abundantly than the gold, and when a large quantity of these mixed vapors is taken the tin burns on contact with the oxygen of the air, forming oxide of tin, colored purple by a fine dust of condensed gold. This is one method of preparing the color known as "purple of Cassius."—Harper's Weekly.

MATHEMATICS.

Used to Locate an Aerolite That No One Had Ever Seen.

Arithmetic, algebra and trigonometry are not romantic, but they may accomplish things which greatly impress the imagination. By means of them a professor at Yale university found a few years ago an aerolite that no one had ever seen

It appears that a photographer in Ansonia, Conn., was occupied in taking pictures by the aid of a telescope of a comet which was invisible to the naked eye. When his negatives were developed one of them revealed the fall of a meteor. It was too small an object to attract the attention of the unaided eyes, but its line on the photograph indicated that it must have come to the earth.

The picture was shown to an astronomical professor at Yale. Ascertaining the point of observation and reckoning with the aid of the data which the photograph itself supplied, he made a calculation which proved that the meteor must have fallen in the neighborhood of a reservoir some two miles north of Danbury, Conn. There the aerolite was found in the very place indicated by the calculation. It was oval in form, measured fifteen and a half inches in length, seven and a half inches in diameter and weighed twenty-six pounds. It was sent to the museum of Yale university, where it serves not only as an illustration of the nature of the vagrant bodies of the skies, but testifies also to the wonders of calculation which it is possible for mathematical science to accomplish.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Pushing and Pulling.

It has been wisely observed that most operations can be more efficiently performed by drawing them along through their proper course than by attempting to push and jam them through, just as it is much easier to pull a rope than it is to push it. There are probably not many persons who have tried to push a rope, but very many have attempted things almost as perverse. In many manufacturing establishments, for example, there may be seen numerous examples of men wasting a large part of their energy endeavoring to move heavy pieces of work upon small trucks, pushing and laboring in the exertion of effort, a small fraction of which goes to cause the actual progression. Even when such an effective aid to transport as an industrial railway is installed it is often used at less than its proper efficiency because there is too much pushing and not enough pulling.—Cassier's Magazine.

SURGEONS' FEES.

Pretty Big Sometimes, but Then There Is Another Point of View.

I have a warm spot in my heart for the big American surgeons, says a writer in the New York Telegraph, and because of regular attendance for years at some of the most famous clinics in this and other cities I have been a witness of their unadvertised charities—acts of mercy and kindness which were never heard of outside the walls of the hospitals they honor by their services.

I knew a wealthy man whose daughter was suddenly stricken and whose life was saved by the attending surgeon. His fee was $25,000. Straightway the father emitted a wail.

"It's robbery," he said. The surgeon stood firm.

"Your daughter's life is worth $25,000 to you," he countered. There was no denial.

"Well, this fee means that I can operate on fifty persons without any charge, and if you don't like it you can force me to sue, but I will get it without a suit or you will stand a lot of publicity."

And he got the money without recourse to a court of law.

It is safe to mark it down when you see a story of some great surgeon who has charged a high fee that there are many of his patients enjoying good health and relief from pain because he charged them nothing at all

Whistler as a Horseman.

Boggs, a cadet cavalry officer at West Point academy, was an assistant in the riding hall. On one occasion he overheard Whistler, who thoroughly disliked to ride, objecting strenuously to the horse brought for his use. The horse, he argued, was too heavily built and much too large for a man of his size. Whistler, with much vehemence, urged the man next him to "swap." The man with whom he wished to exchange horses was of muscular build and a "pretty generous size" and his horse a lightweight animal, so it seemed to Whistler that it would be a "most fitting exchange."

"Oh, don't swap! Don't you swap, Mr. Whistler" cried the dragoon "Yours is a war horse, sir!"

"A war horse!" exclaimed Whistler "That settles it. I certainly don't want him."

"Yes, you do, sir," reiterated the man. "He's a war horse, I tell you, for he'd rather die than run."—Century.

Two Dimensional Vision.

Most people do not know that they ought to be very thankful for having both eyes in one plane instead of having them one on each side of the head. If the latter obtained no one could tell that an object had more than two dimensions until experience and the sense of touch educated the brain to it. Any one can try it for himself. Shut one eye and look at different objects. They appear flat. With binocular vision two views of each object are obtained and neither is exactly like the other, so the idea of depth comes in.

The most easily shown example of the difference is as follows: Take a ring and hold it about two feet from the eye. With one eye closed it will take at least five trials to thrust a pencil through the ring, whereas with both eyes open it can be done on the first trial.

All animals with eyes on opposite sides of the head labor under this disadvantage, as do all insects. It is called two dimensional vision, as the idea of depth is not possible. All this is on account of the image thrown on the retina of the eye being in only two dimensions.—Philadelphia Press.

SHAVING IS NOT FATAL.

Barbers Nowadays Do Not Use Hammers and Cold Chisels.

In reply to a correspondent who says he yearns to have his flowing beard removed and yet lacks the Spartan firmness of the early martyrs to face the ordeal and makes a pathetic appeal for advice the alfalfa editor of the Emporia Gazette unfeelingly remarks:

"The alfalfa editor can offer no advice or encouragement to such a trembling soul. It seems probable that he has worn his whiskers for many years. It is likely that he hasn't purchased a shave for a quarter of a century and therefore is ignorant of the improvements in the art tonsorial which have been achieved in recent years. It is no longer like going through a slaughter house to an open grave to be shaved by an expert barber. In fact, that operation has been so shorn of its terrors that many eminent citizens consider it a pleasure to visit the barber. It is no longer necessary to strap a patient down in the chair before shaving him; neither is it necessary to administer anaesthetics to his whiskers.

"The man whose only reason for wearing whiskers is the fact that he fears the barber shop will gain little sympathy. If he tries to explain that he cannot shave himself without suffering the agonies of the all fired he will gain less. Such excuses might have had some force long ago, when barbers used hammers and cold chisels, but science has made giant strides in recent years, and the country is full of painless barbers, and a clean shave costs no anguish or inconvenience."

MICROSCOPIC MESSAGES.

How a Single Pigeon Might Carry a Whole Library.

For more than 2,000 years carrier pigeons have been used to carry messages when no other means sufficed, and during the siege of Paris, when 863 birds were sent out from the doomed city, one of the birds performed the almost incredible feat of carrying to the outside world on one trip no less than 40,000 messages averaging twenty words each. This was 800,000 words, or the equivalent of five or six average novels.

This marvel was accomplished by means of microscopic photography, the messages being first printed with ordinary type and then photographed and rephotographed until they had been reduced several hundred diameters. The final photographs were taken on films or pellicles of collodion, each of which, about two inches square, contained 50,000 words. A dozen of these films, rolled up in a quill, weighed but one twenty-eighth of an ounce. The messages could, of course, be read with a microscope without the necessity of rephotographing and enlarging.

Under favorable conditions and for comparatively short distances pigeons have carried as much as three-quarters of an ounce. Using the photo reduction method, it would therefore be possible for a single bird to carry messages equal in words to no fewer than 120 ordinary volumes.—Harper's Weekly.

Whistler's White Lock.

As long as the name of James McNeill Whistler lives among those who saw him it will recall the famous white lock which stood out so conspicuously from the mass of his black hair. It was, as he used to say himself, "well placed" and was always treated from the harmonous point of view to develop its greatest effect in his appearance. One day when Dorothy Menpes, daughter of the well known English artist Mortimer Menpes, was a baby and was asleep on her pillow Whistler went to see her. A white feather had by chance settled on her head and lay in a spot exactly corresponding with the white lock on his own head. "That child is going to develop into something great," he exclaimed, "for, see, she begins with a feather, just like me!"

Gypsy Queens.

On occasions America treats its gypsy monarchs with full regal pomp. Matilda Stanley was accorded an almost royal funeral in 1878 at Dayton, O., where, ten years later, another queen was crowned with all proper ceremonial. In England, too, gypsy queens have received all due honor. Esther Faa Blythe, who died in 1883, had many members of the aristocracy on her visiting list, and she, too, had a regular coronation. But, on the whole, the gypsy has not had a very good time in England. An act of 1592, for example, made it a felony without benefit of clergy to be merely seen for a month in the society of gypsies, while for actually being a gypsy no punishment was too severe.—London Standard.

A Premium on Marriage.

In Belgium they place a premium on marriage by allowing a married man two votes at an election as against the single man's one. In Madagascar one must be a father or pay for the default. If a man is unmarried or childless at the age of twenty-five he must contribute annually $3.75 to the support of the state, and each woman who has remained single or is child less at twenty-four is taxed $1.80 per year.

A "Friendly Match."

I speak of a "friendly match," not at all forgetting that dictum of the old Scot to whom his opponent, breaking some trivial rule, said, "I suppose you won't claim that in a friendly match?" "Friendly match!" was the reply. "There's no such thing at golf!" —London Telegraph.

Much is done in the name of friendship; so are many.—Exchange.

How Gold Plate Is Made.

Talking of silver gilt plate, it is often spoken of as gold plate. One hears of the gold service at Windsor castle, of the gold plate owned by sovereigns of Europe and by other persons in this country as well as abroad. As a matter of fact, these so called gold services are silver gilt, and only a few pieces of pure gold are owned by the English crown or any other crown. It may interest our readers to learn how this fire, mercurial or water gilding—for it is known by all of these three names—is done. Pure gold and mercury are mixed into a paste. The silver article to be gilded has been chemically cleaned, is rubbed all over with this paste, which has been placed in a silk bag, just as the blue used in washing is put in a bag. When the piece of plate has been rubbed over it is perfectly white. It is then put into an oven, and gradually the mercury goes off in fumes, leaving on the article a deposit of pure gold, which has practically become one with the piece of silver and will last for centuries.—London Cor. New York Post.

The Spider Cure.

The request for a "nut to put a spider in to cure baby's whooping cough" which recently startled a Somerset shopkeeper recalls the spider "cures" of the past. There was, and indeed is, for instance, that Irish belief in the web as a remedy for cuts, warts and bruises and that superstitition of the eastern counties which credited it with power to cure fevers. The weaver of the web, too, was looked upon as a doctor of medicine.

A note from an ancient Notes and Queries gives the illustration. "One of my parishioners suffering from ague," wrote a Somerset vicar, "was advised to catch a large spider and shut him up in a box. As he pines away the disease is supposed to wear itself out." A similar belief prevailed in the south of Ireland, but there treacle had to be substituted for the box as coffin for the ague healer.—Westminster Gazette

The Doctor's Joke.

A physician who never goes out at night without leaving directions as to where to find him if wanted professionally was at a theater near Forty-second street recently with a friend. Just before the curtain went up on the second act an usher handed him a note reading: "Come to the office at once. Don't telephone. Come." The note was signed by a colleague, and the doctor lost no time in obeying the peremptory summons. Arriving at his destination, he was confronted by several friends, who coolly explained that he had been used to decide a bet as to the length of time it would take to cover the distance which he had traversed. The victim's anger was only slightly appeased when he was assured that the perpetrators of the joke knew no one else who was good natured enough to furnish the information looked for.—New York Tribune.

Putting the Owl to Use.

There is a choice old recipe, in which the owl figures, "to make any one that sleepeth answer to whatsoever thou ask," given in "Physick For the Poor," published in London in 1657. It says that you are to "take the heart of an owl and his left leg and put that upon the breast of one that sleepeth, and they shall reveal whatsoever thou shalt ask them."

The Hindus, however, declare that the flesh or blood of an owl will make a person insane who eats or drinks it. On this account men who are devoured by jealousy of a rival or hatred of an enemy come furtively to the market and purchase an owl. In silence they carry it home and secretly prepare a decoction, which an accomplice will put into the food or drink of the object of their malignant designs.

Wanted a Supply.

"Politics," remarked a Washington official, "is a science as well as a circus. One of the funniest things I ever heard in that connection was about the cowboy delegate to the constitutional convention of Nevada when that territory was about to become a state In the constitution was the stereotyped paragraph about the new state's having two senators to represent it in Washington. When it was read to the convention the cowboy delegate rose and yelled out: 'What's the use of limiting it to two? We're overwhelmingly Republican, and we can elect as many as we want.'"—Washington Star.

The Demons.

"Critics are fine chaps," said an English actor, "but I must confess that when they condemn your play you feel annoyed.

"'I wonder why we call the people in the top of the house gods?' an actress asked an unsuccessful playwright once.

"'We do that,' the unsuccessful playwright answered, 'so as to distinguish them from the people in the bottom of the house who write the criticisms.'"

It Depends.

An actor and a retired army man were discussing the perils of their respective callings.

"How would you like to stand with shells bursting all round you?" the general demanded.

"Well," replied the actor, "it depends on the age of the egg."

Poor Venice.

Friend—And were you ever in Venice? Mr. Richquick—Yes Slowest town I was ever in. The sewers were busted all the time we were there!—Puck.

A Warm Welcome.

Sapleigh—Are you positive that Miss Cutter is not in? The Maid—Yes, sir I'd lose my job if I wasn't.—Boston Transcript.

A Persistent Yankee.

To illustrate Yankee persistency a Wall street magnate told the following story the other day:

"A new England Yankee who was a prisoner on a pirate ship in the good old days when pirates roamed the seas became, because of his Yankee attributes, objectionable to his captors. It was finally decided to maroon him on a desert island with but little food and a coffin to remind him of his inevitable fate. The island was found and the New Englander and the coffin were left alone on the beach, while the pirate ship sailed away. For several days she sailed and then became becalmed. For three days she lay there with not a breath of air. On the evening of the third day a black speck was noticed on the horizon. It steadily grew larger and soon was close enough for the men on the ship to make out what it was."

The man of millions paused for an instant and then said, smiling, "It was the Yankee in his coffin, with half of the lid in either hand rowing for home."—Cincinnati Commercial Trib things that are lost."

"Very well. Where is it?"

The agent named the street.

"Is it far from here?"

"A half hour, three-quarters of an hour if you don't walk rapidly."

The deputy replaced the key on the pavement. "Some one else will pick it up," he said.

"Not at all," said the agent in a commanding tone. "You should have left it where it was, but now you are obliged to go to the bureau. If you don't I'll make a complaint against you and you'll be fined, perhaps given a day in prison. That's the law."

The deputy was compelled to obey orders. Since that day he carries his hand in his pockets.—Cri de Paris.

WHAT I WENT THROUGH

Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Natick, Mass.—"I cannot express what I went through during the change of life before I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was in such a nervous condition I could not keep still. My limbs were cold. I had creepy sensations, and I could not sleep nights. I was finally told by two physicians that I also had a tumor. I read one day of the wonderful cures made by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it, and it has made me a well woman. My neighbors and friends declare it had worked a miracle for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth its weight in gold for women during this period of life. If it will help others you may publish my letter."—Mrs. Nathan B. Greaton, 51 N. Main Street, Natick, Mass.

The Change of Life is the most critical period of a woman's existence. Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Dr. Johnson's Church.

St. Clement Danes has never forgotten the fact that Johnson worshiped within its walls. The pew in which he sat (it is in the north gallery, close to the pulpit) is marked by a brass plate which was erected by the parishioners in 1851. In December, 1884, the centenary of Dr. Johnson's death was observed by a memorial service, when a special address was delivered by the Rev. Dr. Lindsay, at that time rector of St. Clement Danes. Johnson's pew was on that occasion draped in violet. Johnson was always constant in his attendance at church on Good Friday and Easter day. On April 9, 1773, he went with Boswell. "His behavior," writes Boswell, "was, as I had imagined to myself, solemnly devout. I shall never forget the tremulous earnestness with which he pronounced the awful petition in the litany, 'In the hour of death and in the day of judgment, good Lord, deliver us!'"—London News.

The Dollar.

There was a time when dollars were minted in England. In March, 1797, the mint issued stamped Spanish dollars worth 4s. 9d., but they were called in seven months later. It was from the Spanish coin that America got the idea of her almighty dollar, but the name was made in Germany. At least "thaler," of which "dollar" is a corruption, was. The original thaler was the silver guldengroschen, coined in 1518 by order of Count Schlick from the silver of Joachimsthal, in Bohemia, and known at first as the "Joachimsthaler." Thus the name means etymologically "of the valley."—London Chronicle.

A Spurned Gift.

A charity expert was discussing promiscuous almsgiving.

"Promiscuous giving," he said, "is money thrown away. Nothing should be given to beggars except work. A friend of mine said the other day to a beggar:

"'I can't give you any money, my poor fellow, but if you call at my house I'll give you plenty of work.'

"'Thanks,' the beggar answered, 'I've got plenty of that at home.'"

NEW KIND OF TREES ORDERED

Belle Vernon Civic League Secures Norway Pines

LOCAL CITIZENS ANXIOUS

A number of Belle Vernon people have received through the Belle Vernon Civic League a consignment of trees to be planted in various streets of the town. The trees were ordered recently, and are of the rapid growing Norway Maple kind. Belle Vernon has been experiencing much the same trouble that Charleroi is now having with the Carolina poplars. These poplars worked havoc with sewers in various parts of that town, until it was necessary to have them cut down, and something else substituted. Norway Maple was said to be the best for shade and they were ordered.

At the last meeting of the Charleroi council, Frank Bly, of a citizens committee, presented a request that the borough cut down Carolina poplars free of charge where request was made, and council granted the request and instructed the street commissioner to do the work. Several property owners are anxious to have their trees removed, It is said, so others can be substituted as soon as possible. All that is necessary now to have the work done is to notify the proper borough authorities.

Petition To Close Postoffice on Sunday To Be Presented To Proper Authorities In Short Time

At the meeting of the Charleroi Adult Federated clases at the First Presbyterian church Sunday afternoon a report of the Civic committee, of which J. K. Brumbaugh is president, was heard regarding the petitions which have been circulated to have the postoffice closed on Sunday. The petitions have been circulated in the different churches, and largely signed. They will circulated another Sunday and then collected and presented to the postal authorities. Reports were heard from the devotional membership and social committees. They are ust getting their work started for the year.

An effort will be made to finish up the religious census which was started last year.

WILL HOLD INSTITUTE

Country Life in All It's Phases to be Discussed

AN ECONOMIC CONDITION

A Country Life Institute will be held at West Alexander, April 18th and 19th.. The opening session will be at 7:30 on Tuesday evening and Rev. Warren H. Wilson, Ph. D. of New York, superintendent of the Deparment of Church and Country Life of the Presbyterian Board of Home Missions, under whose direction this meeting is to be held, will deliver an address on "The Church in the Country Community."

Each address will be followed by a discussion over which Dr. Warren H. Wilson will preside. This is one of the most important features of the Institute, because of the value of such contributions from the floor.

The purpose of this Institute is a discussion of country life in its threefold aspects; first, in its economic bearings, for that is always first with people who live in the country; then, in its social and educational aspects, and lastly in its religious form, because the church is the crown and summit of the people's vital experience. All attending are urged to heartily co-operate and give out of their own experience that which is vital for the betterment of country conditions.

The meeting will be held in the Presbyterian Church of West Alexander. Rev. Howell M. Evans is the pastor and it will be in connection with the Spring Meeting of the Washington Presbytery. Rev. C. L. McKee of Washington, Pennsylvania, is locally in charge.

DONORA CLUB GOES TO MONONGAHELA

Will Hold Banquet at Out of Town Hotel--Some Talk Caused

Quite a stir was caused in Donora circles last week when it became generally known that the Donora Women's club had completed arrangements for a banquet at the Commercial hotel in Monongahela. It is stated that the members of the club are indignant at the refusal of several Donora hotel proprietors to entertain them, and are going to have a royal spread regardless of cost. The date is set for Thursday, April 13, and covers will be laid for fifty.

PALM SUNDAY IS OBSERVED

Palms Distributed Among Worshipers at Solemn Services

MUSIC SPECIAL FEATURE

The anniversary of Christ's entry into Jerusalem or "Palm Sunday," as it is more commonly known, was appropriately observed with solemn service and special music in Catholic and Protestant churches throughout the town yesterday.

At St Jeromes' Catholic church were the Palm Sunday services most elaborate. The passion was read and palm branches distributed among members of the congregation at the 10:30 mass. At other churches there were commemorative services. Music was a feature.

Parents and Patrons Invited to Inspect Work

EXERCISES BY PUPILS

In readiness for the special Parents' visiting day displays of work have been arranged in the different rooms of the four buildings. The special visiting day will be observed by the Fifth and Crest avenue building on Tuesday and by the Ninth street and the Second street building on Wednesday. Hours will be from 1:30 to 4 o'clock.

The custom is one established by Supt. J. G. Pentz last year, in an effort to get the patrons to see what was being done in the schools Exercises will be gone through, and there will be the annual teaching. One of the main features will be the display of work done by the pupils of the various rooms during the entire year thus far. This has been tastefully arranged on exhibition by the teachers, and consists of drawing writing, and written-work done in the different branches.

Remains of Mrs. Mary Lawrence Sent to Her Late Home in Hazelwood

BOAT WILL BE RAISED

Work to be Started Today on Removing Ill-Fated Towboat From River--Not to be Put in Use

The body of Mrs. Mary Lawrence of the ill fated steamer Henry A. Laughlin, which turned turtle during a wind storm last Thursday night near Allenport was found yesterday floating in the river at Monessen, six miles below where the accident occured.

A crew on the Pittsburg and Lake Erie railroad saw the body floating in the river and put out with a skiff and towed the body ashore. They notified Constable Watts of Monessen, who in turn notified Deputy Coroner Day and the body was taken to Wright's undertaking rooms.

Capt. Cocain of the steamer was notified and arrangements were made to send the body to Hazelwood, the home of the woman. She was a widow and is survived by two sons and five daughters.

The wreck of the Laughlin has shifted its position and will probably be raised today. It is not likely it will ever be used again. She had long been regarded as top heavy.

Town Planning

One of the features in civic work that is becoming prominent is what is known as "town planning." This is a movement to make social centers in cities and towns, and to pay attention and promote attractiveness and beauty in the public as well as private places. The social centre feature is places for recreative purposes, such as parks and public squares, as well as buildings where the people can gather the same as at private clubs for amusement and social intercourse.

Very gradually but most effectually is the thought gaining ground that money making is not all that constitutes life, and that some attention should be paid to the every day environments of the plain people. If the business affairs of the cities were conducted along business lines, all these things could be attained with a minimum of taxation. Charleroi, for example, ought to secure the baseball ground in addition to enough ground for a public park and playground, as well as a public clubhouse where the citizenship could meet in social intercourse and have dancing, and other recreative amusements. While there is no likelihood of Charleroi attaining all these in the near future, it is no Utopian or Socialistic dream. Other cities and towns are getting them, while in a many European cities these features and more too, have long been in existence.

This, in brief, is what constitutes town planning. The movement is just beginning in this country, and the agitatitou for the "Pittsburg Plan" for a city charter is a start in the direction of town planning. The movement is destined to play a prominent part in municipal civics in the future.

A Civic Need

One of the civic needs of Charleroi has been supplied by the placing of park benches on the grass plot along McKean avenue, near the corner of Fifth street. This act is through the bounty of a private citizen, but its effect will be so far reaching that it is to be hoped it will furnish inspiration for more work of the sort along the same line. As an aid to the trading facilities of Charleroi the benefit of a resting place for out of town women shoppers with parcels will be inestimable, and the wonder is that none of those directly interested were thoughtful enough to provide this convenience years ago.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

"I think I have the banner chicken story of the season," said Dr. J. K. Smith, who is also a succesful chicken farmer "During the cold period of March I ordered 50 eggs for batching from a distant point. The shipment was three days en route, and when I received the temperature was ranging from 20 to 25 degrees above zero. I kept the eggs 24 hours in the house, and then drove out to my Maple Creek farm with them, the temperature still as cold as when the eggs were received. I placed them under hens, and in exactly, fifteen and a half days one of the eggs hatched a lively chick. That was Saturday, and the rest are not due until the latter part of this week. I presume the egg that hatched must have been set upon, but the length of time it was en route makes the achievement all the more wonderful."

A WOMAN'S INFLUENCE.

Effect it Produced on Her Husband's Business Affairs.

A delegation of young men lately waited on their employer's wife with the oddest request on record. "You see, madam," said the spokesman, "we want to have a half holiday every Saturday. Now, if you will be particularly nice to Mr. Page for a few days we'll go to him and ask"—

"Gentlemen," the lady haughtily interrupted, "do you imply that I do not understand what is due to my husband?"

"Oh, I know all about it, madam," the spokesman went on. "I'm married myself. Things go wrong in the house, and you're tired and cross at breakfast. Then we suffer at the office. You stay up late to chaperon your daughter at a ball, and we have more trouble at the office. You're a bit cross three mornings in succession for one reason or another, and we have a—a—terrible time at the office.

"You see how the matter stands and how greatly you will oblige us by being more than usually agreeable to Mr. Page for three or four days. The fourth day give him the best breakfast you can—everything that he likes best—and we'll get what we want in three minutes.

"Talk about a woman having no influence in the business! Why, the humor she's in has more effect than a bank failure or a boom in trade."

She thought she ought to be angry, but instead she laughed and agreed to the proposition, and four days later when they waited on the head of the firm he made the closing hour 12 o'clock and said never in the history of the firm had things run as satisfactorily as they had during the last four days.—London Tit-Bits.

A Wetter if Not a Better Man.

A little man in the west of England rushed to the river last summer, swearing loudly that he would drown himself. When he had waded in to the depth of his waist his wife, who had followed him, seized him by the hair, and then, as a local editor described it, she led him back till he reached a place where the water was about two feet deep, where she pulled him over backward and soused him under and pulled his head up again. "Drown yourself (down he went), leaving me to father the brats! (Another plunge.) Get drunk (another souse) and start for the river! (Another dip.) Better use the water instead of rum! (Another dip and shake of the head.) I'll l'arn ye to leave me a widow!" After sozzling him to her heart's content she led him out a wetter if not a better man and escorted him into the house and closed the door.

The Gordian Knot.

The famous Gordian knot was made of leather taken from some part of the harness belonging to the chariot of Gordius, king of Phrygia. It seems that this knot was so tied that the ends of the leather thong were not visible, hence the difficulty in loosening it. Many must have tried to untie it, for its fame as a "sticker" at last reached the great oracle, which declared that the lucky experimenter should be rewarded by the kingship of Persia. Alexander, trying his hand and meeting with no better success than the others, drew his sword and cut into the knot until he found the ends of it.

Distilled Gold.

The investigations of a French chemist show that gold in the electric furnace boils freely at a temperature of 2,400 degrees C. In two or three minutes, it is said, from 100 to 150 grams of gold pass into the state of vapor. In condensing upon a cold body this golden vapor forms filiform masses and cubic crystals. At its temperature of ebullition gold dissolves a little carbon, which at the time of resolidification is deposited in the form of graphite. In an alloy of gold and copper, copper distills first. In an alloy of gold and tin, the tin distills more abundantly than the gold, and when a large quantity of these mixed vapors is taken the tin burns on contact with the oxygen of the air, forming oxide of tin, colored purple by a fine dust of condensed gold. This is one method of preparing the color known as "purple of Cassius."—Harper's Weekly.

MATHEMATICS.

Used to Locate an Aerolite That No One Had Ever Seen.

Arithmetic, algebra and trigonometry are not romantic, but they may accomplish things which greatly impress the imagination. By means of them a professor at Yale university found a few years ago an aerolite that no one had ever seen.

It appears that a photographer in Ansonia, Conn., was occupied in taking pictures by the aid of a telescope of a comet which was invisible to the naked eye. When his negatives were developed one of them revealed the fall of a meteor. It was too small an object to attract the attention of the unaided eyes, but its line on the photograph indicated that it must have come to the earth.

The picture was shown to an astronomical professor at Yale. Ascertaining the point of observation and reckoning with the aid of the data which the photograph itself supplied, he made a calculation which proved that the meteor must have fallen in the neighborhood of a reservoir some two miles north of Danbury, Conn. There the aerolite was found in the very place indicated by the calculation. It was oval in form, measured fifteen and a half inches in length, seven and a half inches in diameter and weighed twenty-six pounds. It was sent to the museum of Yale university, where it serves not only as an illustration of the nature of the vagrant bodies of the skies, but testifies also to the wonders of calculation which it is possible for mathematical science to accomplish.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Pushing and Pulling.

It has been wisely observed that most operations can be more efficiently performed by drawing them along through their proper course than by attempting to push and jam them through, just as it is much easier to pull a rope than it is to push it. There are probably not many persons who have tried to push a rope, but very many have attempted things almost as perverse. In many manufacturing establishments, for example, there may be seen numerous examples of men wasting a large part of their energy endeavoring to move heavy pieces of work upon small trucks, pushing and laboring in the exertion of effort, a small fraction of which goes to cause the actual progression. Even when such an effective aid to transport as an industrial railway is installed it is often used at less than its proper efficiency because there is too much pushing and not enough pulling.—Cassier's Magazine.

Thought He Had Seen It.

Yankee Tourist (watching Vesuvius in eruption)—Great snakes! It reminds me of hades. English Tourist (looking at him in amazement)—My word! You Americans go everywhere!—Boston Transcript.

SURGEONS' FEES.

Pretty Big Sometimes, but Then There Is Another Point of View.

I have a warm spot in my heart for the big American surgeons, says a writer in the New York Telegraph, and because of regular attendance for years at some of the most famous clinics in this and other cities I have been a witness of their unadvertised charities—acts of mercy and kindness which were never heard of outside the walls of the hospitals they honor by their services.

I knew a wealthy man whose daughter was suddenly stricken and whose life was saved by the attending surgeon. His fee was $25,000. Straightway the father emitted a wail.

"It's robbery," he said. The surgeon stood firm.

"Your daughter's life is worth $25,000 to you," he countered. There was no denial.

"Well, this fee means that I can operate on fifty persons without any charge, and if you don't like it you can force me to sue, but I will get it without a suit or you will stand a lot of publicity."

And he got the money without recourse to a court of law.

It is safe to mark it down when you see a story of some great surgeon who has charged a high fee that there are many of his patients enjoying good health and relief from pain because he charged them nothing at all.

Whistler as a Horseman.

Boggs, a cadet cavalry officer at West Point academy, was an assistant in the riding hall. On one occasion he overheard Whistler, who thoroughly disliked to ride, objecting strenuously to the horse brought for his use. The horse, he argued, was too heavily built and much too large for a man of his size. Whistler, with much vehemence, urged the man next him to "swap." The man with whom he wished to exchange horses was of muscular build and a "pretty generous size" and his horse a lightweight animal, so it seemed to Whistler that it would be a "most fitting exchange."

"Oh, don't swap! Don't you swap, Mr. Whistler" cried the dragoon. "Yours is a war horse, sir!"

"A war horse!" exclaimed Whistler. "That settles it. I certainly don't want him."

"Yes, you do, sir," reiterated the man. "He's a war horse, I tell you, for he'd rather die than run."—Century.

Two Dimensional Vision.

Most people do not know that they ought to be very thankful for having both eyes in one plane instead of having them one on each side of the head. If the latter obtained no one could tell that an object had more than two dimensions until experience and the sense of touch educated the brain to it. Any one can try it for himself. Shut one eye and look at different objects. They appear flat. With binocular vision two views of each object are obtained and neither is exactly like the other, so the idea of depth comes in.

The most easily shown example of the difference is as follows: Take a ring and hold it about two feet from the eye. With one eye closed it will take at least five trials to thrust a pencil through the ring, whereas with both eyes open it can be done on the first trial.

All animals with eyes on opposite sides of the head labor under this disadvantage, as do all insects. It is called two dimensional vision, as the idea of depth is not possible. All this is on account of the image thrown on the retina of the eye being in only two dimensions.—Philadelphia Press.

SHAVING IS NOT FATAL.

Barbers Nowadays Do Not Use Hammers and Cold Chisels.

In reply to a correspondent who says he yearns to have his flowing beard removed and yet lacks the Spartan firmness of the early martyrs to face the ordeal and makes a pathetic appeal for advice the alfalfa editor of the Emporia Gazette unfeelingly remarks:

"The alfalfa editor can offer no advice or encouragement to such a trembling soul. It seems probable that he has worn his whiskers for many years It is likely that he hasn't purchased a shave for a quarter of a century and therefore is ignorant of the improvements in the art tonsorial which have been achieved in recent years It is no longer like going through a slaughter house to an open grave to be shaved by an expert barber In fact, that operation has been so shorn of its terrors that many eminent citizens consider it a pleasure to visit the barber It is no longer necessary to strap a patient down in the chair before shaving him; neither is it necessary to administer anaesthetics to his whiskers

"The man whose only reason for wearing whiskers is the fact that he fears the barber shop will get a little sympathy. If he tries to explain that he cannot shave himself without suffering the agonies of the all fired he will gain less. Such excuses might have had some force long ago, when barbers used hammers and cold chisels, but science has made giant strides in recent years, and the country is full of painless barbers and a clean shave costs no anguish or inconvenience"

MICROSCOPIC MESSAGES.

How a Single Pigeon Might Carry a Whole Library.

For more than 2,000 years carrier pigeons have been used to carry messages when no other means sufficed, and during the siege of Paris, when 363 birds were sent out from the doomed city, one of the birds performed the almost incredible feat of carrying to the outside world on one trip no less than 40,000 messages averaging twenty words each. This was 800,000 words, or the equivalent of five or six average novels.

This marvel was accomplished by means of microscopic photography, the messages being first printed with ordinary type and then photographed and rephotographed until they had been reduced several hundred diameters The final photographs were taken on films or pellicles of collodion, each of which, about two inches square, contained 50,000 words. A dozen of these films, rolled up in a quill, weighed but one twenty-eighth of an ounce. The messages could, of course, be read with a microscope without the necessity of rephotographing and enlarging.

Under favorable conditions and for comparatively short distances pigeons have carried as much as three-quarters of an ounce Using the photo reduction method, it would therefore be possible for a single bird to carry messages equal in words to no fewer than 120 ordinary volumes.—Harper's Weekly.

Whistler's White Lock.

As long as the name of James McNeill Whistler lives among those who saw him it will recall the famous white lock which stood out so conspicuously from the mass of his black hair. It was, as he used to say himself, "well placed" and was always treated from the harmonious point of view to develop its greatest effect in his appearance. One day when Dorothy Menpes, daughter of the well known English artist Mortimer Menpes, was a baby and was asleep on her pillow Whistler went to see her. A white feather had by chance settled on her head and lay in a spot exactly corresponding with the white lock on his own head. "That child is going to develop into something great," he exclaimed, "for, see, she begins with a feather, just like me!"

Gypsy Queens.

On occasions America treats its gypsy monarchs with full regal pomp. Matilda Stanley was accorded an almost royal funeral in 1878 at Dayton, O., where, ten years later, another queen was crowned with all proper ceremonial. In England, too, gypsy queens have received all due honor. Esther Faa Blythe, who died in 1883, had many members of the aristocracy on her visiting list, and she, too, had a regular coronation But, on the whole, the gypsy has not had a very good time in England. An act of 1592, for example, made it a felony without benefit of clergy to be merely seen for a month in the society of gypsies, while for actually being a gypsy no punishment was too severe.—London Standard.

A Premium on Marriage.

In Belgium they place a premium on marriage by allowing a married man two votes at an election as against the single man's one In Madagascar one must be a father or pay for the default. If a man is unmarried or childless at the age of twenty-five he must contribute annually $3 75 to the support of the state, and each woman who has remained single or is childless at twenty-four is taxed $1.80 per year.

A "Friendly Match"

I speak of a "friendly match," not at all forgetting that dictum of the old Scot to whom his opponent, breaking some trivial rule, said, "I suppose you won't claim that in a friendly match?" "Friendly match!" was the reply. "There's no such thing at golf!"—London Telegraph.

Much is done in the name of friendship; so are many.—Exchange.

How Gold Plate Is Made.

Talking of silver gilt plate, it is often spoken of as gold plate. One hears of the gold service at Windsor castle, of the gold plate owned by sovereigns of Europe and by other persons in this country as well as abroad. As a matter of fact, these so called gold services are silver gilt, and only a few pieces of pure gold are owned by the English crown or any other crown. It may interest our readers to learn how this fire, mercurial or water gilding—for it is known by all of these three names—is done. Pure gold and mercury are mixed into a paste. The silver article to be gilded has been chemically cleaned, is rubbed all over with this paste, which has been placed in a silk bag, just as the blue used in washing is put in a bag When the piece of plate has been rubbed over it is perfectly white It is then put into an oven, and gradually the mercury goes off in fumes, leaving on the article a deposit of pure gold, which has practically become one with the piece of silver and will last for centuries.—London Cor New York Post.

The Spider Cure.

The request for a "nut to put a spider in to cure baby's whooping cough" which recently startled a Somerset shopkeeper recall [illegible] of the past. There was, and indeed is for instance, that Irish belief in the web as a remedy for cuts, warts and bruises and that superstition of the eastern counties which credited it with power to cure fevers The weaver of the web, too, was looked upon as a doctor of medicine

A note from an ancient Notes and Queries gives the illustration "One of my parishioners suffering from ague," wrote a Somerset vicar, "was advised to catch a large spider and shut him up in a box As he pines away the disease is supposed to wear itself out" A similar belief prevailed in the south of Ireland, but there treacle had to be substituted for the box as coffin for the ague healer.—Westminster Gazette

The Doctor's Joke.

A physician who never goes out at night without leaving directions as to where to find him if wanted professionally was at a theater near Forty-second street recently with a friend. Just before the curtain went up on the second act an usher handed him a note reading "Come to the office at once Don't telephone Come." The note was signed by a colleague, and the doctor lost no time in obeying the peremptory summons Arriving at his destination, he was confronted by several friends, who coolly explained that he had been used to decide a bet as to the length of time it would take to cover the distance which he had traversed The victim's anger was only slightly appeased when he was assured that the perpetrators of the joke knew no one else who was good natured enough to furnish the information looked for.—New York Tribune.

Putting the Owl to Use.

There is a choice old recipe, in which the owl figures, "to make any one that sleepeth answer to whatsoever thou ask," given in "Physick For the Poor," published in London in 1657 It says that you are to "take the heart of an owl and his left leg and put that upon the breast of—one that sleepeth, and they shall reveal whatsoever thou shalt ask them"

The Hindus, however, declare that the flesh or blood of an owl will make a person insane who eats or drinks it. On this account men who are devoured by jealousy of a rival or hatred of an enemy come furtively to the market and purchase an owl In silence they carry it home and secretly prepare a decoction, which an accomplice will put into the food or drink of the object of their malignant designs

Wanted a Supply.

"Politics," remarked a Washington official, "is a science as well as a circus. One of the funniest things I ever heard in that connection was about the cowboy delegate to the constitutional convention of Nevada when that territory was about to become a state In the constitution was the stereotyped paragraph about the new state's having two senators to represent it in Washington When it was read to the convention the cowboy delegate rose and yelled out: 'What's the use of limiting it to two? We're overwhelmingly Republican, and we can elect as many as we want.'"—Washington Star.

The Demons.

"Critics are fine chaps," said an English actor, "but I must confess that when they condemn your play you feel annoyed.

"'I wonder why we call the people in the top of the house gods?' an actress asked an unsuccessful playwright once.

"'We do that,' the unsuccessful playwright answered, 'so as to distinguish them from the people in the bottom of the house who write the criticisms.'"

It Depends.

An actor and a retired army man were discussing the perils of their respective callings.

"How would you like to stand with shells bursting all round you?" the general demanded.

"Well," replied the actor, "it depends on the age of the egg."

Poor Venice.

Friend—And were you ever in Venice? Mr. Richquick—Yes Slowest town I was ever in. The sewers were busted all the time we were there!—Puck.

A Warm Welcome.

Sapleigh—Are you positive that Miss Cutter is not in? The Maid—Yes, sir I'd lose my job if I wasn't.—Boston Transcript.

A Persistent Yankee.

To illustrate Yankee persistency a Wall street magnate told the following story the other day.

"A new England Yankee who was a prisoner on a pirate ship in the good old days when pirates roamed the seas became, because of his Yankee attributes, objectionable to his captors It was finally decided to maroon him on a desert island with but little food and a coffin to remind him of his inevitable fate The island was found and the New Englander and the coffin were left alone on the beach, while the pirate ship sailed away. For several days she sailed and then became becalmed For three days she lay there with not a breath of air. On the evening of the third day a black speck was noticed on the horizon It steadily grew larger and soon was close enough for the men on the ship to make out what it was"

The man of millions paused for an instant and then said, smiling, "It was the Yankee in his coffin with half of the lid in either hand rowing for home."—Cincinnati Commercial Trib

An Old English Inn.

The Seven Stars is an inn or public house in Manchester, England which has held a license continuously since 1370 It served as the meeting place for the Guy Fawkes band of conspirators

[illegible] things that are lost"

"Very well Where is it?"

The agent named the street.

"Is it far from here?"

"A half hour, three quarters of an hour if you don't walk rapidly"

The deputy replaced the key on the pavement Some one else will pick it up" he said

"Not at all" said the agent in a commanding tone "You should have left it where it was, but now you are obliged to go to the bureau If you don't I'll make a complaint against you and you'll be fined, perhaps given a day in prison. That's the law."

The deputy was compelled to obey orders Since that day he carries his hand in his pockets.—Cri de Paris.

WHAT I WENT THROUGH

Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Natick, Mass.—"I cannot express what I went through during the change of life before I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was in such a nervous condition I could not keep still. My limbs were cold. I had creepy sensations, and I could not sleep nights I was finally told by two physicians that I also had a tumor. I read one day of the wonderful cures made by Lydia E Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it, and it has made me a well woman. My neighbors and friends declare it had worked a miracle for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth its weight in gold for women during this period of life. If it will help others you may publish my letter."—Mrs. NATHAN B. GREATON, 51 N. Main Street, Natick, Mass.

The Change of Life is the most critical—period of a woman's existence. Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

Dr. Johnson's Church.

St. Clement Danes has never forgotten the fact that Johnson worshiped within its walls The pew in which he sat (it is in the north gallery, close to the pulpit) is marked by a brass plate which was erected by the parishioners in 1851 In December, 1884, the centenary of Dr. Johnson's death was observed by a memorial service, when a special address was delivered by the Rev. Dr. Lindsay, at that time rector of St. Clement Danes Johnson's pew was on that occasion draped in violet Johnson was always constant in his attendance at church on Good Friday and Easter day On April 9, 1773, he went with Boswell. "His behavior," writes Boswell, "was, as I had imagined to myself, solemnly devout. I shall never forget the tremulous earnestness with which he pronounced the awful petition in the litany 'In the hour of death and in the day of judgment, good Lord, deliver us!'"—London News.

The Dollar.

There was a time when dollars were minted in England In March, 1797, the mint issued stamped Spanish dollars worth 4s 9d but they were called in seven months later. It was from the Spanish coin that America got the idea of her almighty dollar, but the name was made in Germany At least "thaler," of which "dollar" is a corruption, was The original thaler was the silver guldengroschen, coined in 1518 by order of Count Schlick from the silver of Joachimsthal, in Bohemia, and known at first as the "Joachimsthaler." Thus the name means etymologically "of the valley"—London Chronicle.

A Spurned Gift.

A charity expert was discussing promiscuous almsgiving.

"Promiscuous giving," he said, "is money thrown away. Nothing should be given to beggars except work. A friend of mine said the other day to a beggar:

"'I can't give you any money, my poor fellow, but if you call at my house I'll give you plenty of work.'

"'Thanks,' the beggar answered. 'I've got plenty of that at home.'"

If everyone has seen it at some time or other, then why doesn't the railroad let the sign rot away? Why does the railroad company continue to keep those signs at every crossing?

Maybe you think, Mr. Merchant, "Most everybody knows my store, I don't have to advertise."

Your store and your goods need more advertising than the railroads need do to warn people to "Look Out for the Cars."
